Etowah Visitation Project to resume detainee visits at county jail

Activists gathered outside the Etowah County Detention Center Saturday, June 20, 2015 for "Chant Down the Walls," a celebration of music for immigrant detainees. (William Thornton / wthornton@al.com)

William Thornton | wthornton@al.com

A group which visits immigration detainees at the Etowah County Detention Center has been notified it is being allowed access to them after a ban of about a month.

Etowah County Sheriff Todd Entrekin notified members of the Etowah Visitation Project that they will be granted access to the jail again for regular monthly visits.

Sheriff's Office spokeswoman Natalie Barton said the group is being given "a second chance to visit immigration detainees inside the Detention Center. Their status is as visitors only and must follow visitation rules. Should these rules be ignored or violated again, they will not be allowed to visit."

There are about 270 immigration detainees in the jail. The jail holds about 700 inmates in total. The visitation project has staged visits once or twice a month. In August, members of the project and Adalante Alabama Worker Center staged a protest on the ban.

Members of the project believed the ban came after Community Initiatives for Visiting Immigrants in Confinement (CIVIC), an immigration visitation group, filed a complaint against the detention center, alleging inadequate medical care, assaults and harassment. That complaint followed a protest at the jail on June 20.
In August, the sheriff ended ties with the group for misconduct that "affected the order and operation of programs inside the Detention Center," Barton said. However, immediately after, members of the group were still able to conduct individual visits with detainees.

Last week, Entrekin notified the group they could resume their visits. According to a letter to the Southern Poverty Law Center, Entrekin said members of the visitation project have encouraged detainees not to take part in programs offered there. He also said members of the project have subjected jail employees to verbal abuse and threats.

"I also understand that while there are many who see confinement of this population as inappropriate and/or unnecessary," Entrekin wrote, "we are in the detention business. This is a philosophical divide that we will most likely never be able to cross."

In a reply, Eunice Cho, an attorney with the SPLC, stated it did not agree that project workers verbally abused jail workers or encouraged detainees not to participate in educational programs. Cho also said the SPLC awaits a clarification from Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) on whether visitors can be denied access "in retaliation for expression protected by the First Amendment."

Cho said the incident illustrates that "immigrant detention is creating a tangle of legal issues for detainees and government officials."

Katherine Weathers, coordinator of the Etowah Visitation Project, said the group is "very appreciative" that visits can resume.

"We're really happy," she said. "We never really understood the reason why our agreement ended. We hope going forward we can work with the sheriff and his staff in a productive manner."

Weathers said the project is planning another visit next week.

This post was corrected at 6:14 p.m. Sept. 30 to correct an attribution.
Missing Fairhope woman found dead in her car on private property, behind a locked gate

1 comment

Sign in

Post comment as...

Newest | Oldest

LoveAL
Where are the activists for the crime victims?

Flag Share

AL.com Sections
News
Business
Sports
High School Sports
Entertainment
Living
Travel
Opinion

Obituaries
Jobs
 Autos
Real Estate
Apartment Rentals
Classifieds
Shopping Good Deals
Local Businesses

More on AL.com
Forums
Videos
Photos
Interact with us
Weather

Post a job
Post a free classified ad
Sell your car
Rent a car
Sell/rent your home
Site Map & search
Sponsor Content

Become a Member
The Birmingham News
The Huntsville Times
Press-Register
Free newsletters

Follow Us
Twitter | Facebook | Google+ |
Pinterest | Instagram

Your Regional News Pages
Anniston/Gadsden
Birmingham
Huntsville
Mobile
Montgomery
Tuscaloosa
Gulf Coast Beaches

AL.com
About Us
About Alabama Media Group
Jobs at Alabama Media Group
Advertise with us
About AL.com
Contact Us
Online Store

Already a Subscriber?
Manage your subscription
Delivery feedback
Place a vacation hold
Make a payment

Customer Service
Place an ad
Get home delivery
Promote your event in our calendar
Send us an email
Submit a news tip
Buy newspaper front pages, poster and more

Registration on or use of this site constitutes acceptance of our User Agreement and Privacy Policy.

© 2015 Alabama Media Group. All rights reserved (About Us).
The material on this site may not be reproduced, distributed, transmitted, cached or otherwise used, except with the prior written permission of Alabama Media Group.

Community Rules apply to all content you upload or otherwise submit to this site. Contact interactivity management.

Ad Choices